Does shoe size predict penis size? Are oysters an aphrodisiac? Do redheads have fiery tempers? Are stepmothers wicked? Is it grim up north? Do politicians lie? Answering these and many other questions with an engaging mixture of humour and psychological insight, Women Can't Park, Men Can't Pack takes psychology to the battle of the sexes and beyond by examining the truths and misconceptions behind the stereotypes that we often take for granted. Author and psychology lecturer Geoff Rolls reveals why so many people are afraid of clowns, why cavemen preferred blondes and why we may never have a Prime Minister called Wayne. Clever, compelling and often surprising, this is the perfect book for anyone who wants to find out more about why we believe the things we do.
