This law student study aid discusses the major cases from Wadlington's domestic relations casebook. Each casebrief includes an explanation of the facts of the case, issues, holdings, and judge's rationale. This title includes cases about the changing concepts about the nature of marriage, getting married, the relationship between husband and wife, parent-child relations in the law, procreation, custody of children, adoption, grounds and procedures for dissolution of marriages, and economic effects of dissolution.
