It's a long way from Elephant Island to Icetown, but good friends will travel great distances to visit one another. And so Elephant leaves home to see his penguin penpals - Elephant has helped them build a hotel, and there will be a party in his honour. In Icetown, things don't go as planned. In fact, they don't go smoothly at all. But just like friends will travel far across the sea to be with one another, good friends will also always help to make things right.
