Russ Stone has a talent. A talent for finding things that no one else can find. There were not many cars in the parking spaces near Tom's car. He ran to the nearest one and banged on the window... Did you see anyone take my daughter? Tom and Rachel were on the way to their beach house for a family vacation. Little did they know their family would be ripped apart by the sudden abduction of their daughter, Audrey, from their parked car at a rest stop. The police investigate but produce no results. Russ Stone is called in to trace the path of their missing daughter and her captors. Using the means and techniques not available to normal law enforcement, Russ finds himself in an around-the-world manhunt. In the process, Russ discovers that Audrey has not simply been kidnapped, but taken prisoner... with evil intent.
