Amid the turmoil of 1927 Shanghai, three women determine the tragic fate of a young piano prodigy. Which of them is really responsible? A Cold Season In Shanghai, is set against the backdrop of revolution in China when Shanghai was like no other place on earth. As the city crumbles around them and danger threatens at every turn, the lives of the four protagonists also crumble and their relationships dissolve. The narrator is a Russian woman, brought up in a wealthy family living well in the city of Shanghai. Tatiana, looking back on her actions thirty years later from her new life in North America, recalls her youth and the complex relationships between the three women and the effect they had on each other's lives. Tatiana suspects she may have been the catalyst for a series of devastating events that caused havoc in the lives of her friends.
