"Utterly useful . . . its own cultural Rorschach." – New York Times

The simplest things are the hardest to master. This book provides unparalleled insights into how to accomplish your daily tasks better—more resourcefully, more effectively, and more efficiently—in a collection of brief, entertaining how-to essays by 100 of the world's leading authorities. Topics include:

Interpersonal skills, such as how to listen by Larry King

Etiquette essentials, such as how to set a formal table by Peggy Post

Home pointers, such as how to paint a room by Bob Vila

Beauty basics, including how to apply lipstick by Bobbi Brown

Cooking tips, such as how to barbecue by Bobby Flay

Health hints, such as how to breathe by Bikram Choudhury

Athletic advice, including how to hit a tennis ball by Jennifer Capriati

"A brilliant package." – USA Weekend

"Packed with advice." – Newsweek

"The latest insights into how to do much of the day-to-day stuff better, more resourcefully, more effectively." – Family Circle
