

Running for My Life

Running for My Life\_下载链接1

著者:Gonzalez, Ann

出版者:

出版时间:

装帧:

isbn:9781934813003

Running for My Life is the powerful story of Andrea McKane, a fourteenyear- old who struggles to cope with her mother's schizophrenia. She must face the heartbreaking fact that her mother, with whom she once laughed and played, has vanished into her disease, possibly forever. The book accurately portrays the difficulties a teen faces when dealing with the illness, the abuse and absence of a parent with mental illness. Running for My Life shows the effects of mental illness on a family, and a teenager's attempts to manage the changes that have shaken her life. With courage, strength, and the loving support of her friends, her father, and her therapist, Andrea finds salvation through running. Running for My Life represents a heartwarming, encouraging breakthrough effort in portraying the challenges teens confront when they have to protect themselves from a guardian.

作者介绍:

目录:

Running for My Life\_ 下载链接1

标签

评论

-----
Running for My Life\_ 下载链接1

书评

-----
Running for My Life\_ 下载链接1