The Christian scholar St Jerome once said that in the First and Second Chronicles we find "the meaning of the whole sacred history". This text focuses on the theological messages of these books - that the purpose of life is to seek God in the words of Scripture, and in the worship of the temple; that those who seek and find God's will and purpose for their lives, and live accordingly, experience blessing; and that God's presence and activity are found in the events of ordinary life.
