This is a novel that vividly describes events as they may occur during the last seven years on earth, a time known as the Tribulation. It is a novel of horror as the Seal, Trumpet, and Bowl judgments of God, are unleashed on an unbelieving world. This is a novel of survival. Jacob Fredricks finds himself left behind when his wife and son are Raptured. With the help of his wife's parents and two close friends, he devises a plan that he hopes will allow all of them to survive until the Lord's Second Coming-to live in a cave near Denver, far from the terror that man is now facing. But what will happen to them when their cave is discovered? This is a novel of power. The satanic powers of the Anti-Christ and of his false prophet are used to force men and women into accepting the mark of the beast or to be tortured and executed in ways unimaginable. This is a novel of grace and forgiveness. With the world coming to a climactic end, the forces of the Anti-Christ pursue Jacob Fredricks, and in God's grace he finds comfort. But is it the Lord's will that Jacob survive until Christ's return?
