What is the meaning of life? Why are some people more successful than others? I am a typical teenager who wonders about the secret to success and ways in which successful individuals are different from others. I would love to know a direct answer to this question, but just like any human being, the only way I can get answers is through personal experience. You will find it amazing how some of the smallest aspects of life make the biggest differences and allow a person to find professional and personal success. The question that remains is: are you ready to achieve success by improving yourself?
