Love. The very word has inspired thousands of songs, poems, speeches, and stories. It is the basis upon which human relationships are born and develop, and is said to make the world go around. This small book of religious inspiration teaches that anyone can make a difference, even if it is with just one person at a time. "One principle ought to give you courage—that is the principle that no evil lasts forever, nor indeed for very long. What lies behind us and what lies before us are but small matters compared to what lies within us."
