Gonzalo Soltero's first novel shows him to be an intelligent, energetic writer who deftly combines suspense with humor, keeping the reader's attention with an apparently simple yet deliberate structure. Dedicated scientist Adrian Ustoria finds that he must take to the streets to discover the strange connection between his current project and the odd events going on around the city. Gonzalo Soltero paints Mexico City as a laboratory where the Apocalypse weaves its webs in silence; where the dark forces that dwell within the city lay siege to it, encircle it, darken its heights and tear at its bowels.
