The last ten years on the railway network has seen many changes and developments in every part of the country to both freight and passenger services. This large format landscape book presents a superlative colour portrait of the railways of Great Britain, from the South West of England to the North East of Scotland and most places in between. Some 37 different classes of traction in 71 colourful liveries are shown against dramatic and majestic British landscapes, and while the majority of the photographs are of locomotive hauled trains, there are also some shots of DMUs and EMUs included. Every railway enthusiast will delight in the quality of the images and the artistry of the photographers who make this stunning portrait of all original material a lovely book to own and revisit time and time again.
