This second volume in the series Le nom des langues is dedicated to the least-spoken languages in modern Greece: Aromanian, Arvanite, Armenian, Greco-Pontic, Romani and Slavian. It serves as a guide to the linguistic and socio-linguistic situation in Greece, which is still obscured by political and scientific taboos. Each chapter introduces a different language and contains information on the name of the language and its linguistic, socio-linguistic and historical placement, that aids in understanding its general context. French text.
