Based in New York, interior and home furnishings designer Thomas O'Brien is founder of the design firm Aero Studios and proprietor of its retail store. With a knack for knowing what works in American homes, he has designed products for his own and several other companies (including the Vintage Modern line for Target), and his influence is substantial. In this oversize book (10x11") he describes seven projects (including his home) and articulates his philosophy, aesthetic, and reasons for his choices. Full-page photos show what he's talking about. Intended for browsing by professionals and non-professionals looking for ideas,
