Detailing the work of archaeologists, this series allows readers to learn about history in a fun, interactive way by piecing together stories from the past using real-life archaeological and scientific methods. A wall chart of interesting facts is also included. This exciting adventure takes students on a transatlantic fossil dig. Joining a team of paleontologists, this educational resource discusses the techniques and equipment used during excavations and examines the Jurassic era. The combination of proven facts and a detailed story line will both inform and entertain young readers.
