It is 1950 and the Liverpool repertory theatre company is rehearsing its Christmas production of Peter Pan, a story of childhood innocence and loss. Stella has been taken on as assistant stage manager and quickly becomes obsessed with Meredith, the dissolute director. But it is only when the celebrated O'Hara arrives to take the lead, that a different drama unfolds. In it, he and Stella are bound together in a past that neither dares to interpret.

Man Booker Prize Nominee (1990) shortlist. Everything unfolds in the end. When it finally hits me as to the exact meaning of "awfully big adventure", it's overwhelming. At first I thought this a story of a girl who likes to play-act ended up as the drama queen, or a tragic event of incest that drove everyone mad. No, it's more universal than this.
