Joyce Rebeta-Burditt's WOMEN'S GROUP is the bookend to her first novel THE CRACKER FACTORY, a national bestseller and ABC TV movie-of-the-week starring Natalie Wood and Shelley Long. This autobiographical novel offers frank and funny reflections on the lives of a small group of women in AA alongside the storyteller's career as a network executive and TV writer/producer. Once committed to a mental institute for alcoholism, the lead character is now 40-years-sober, helping others at Tuesday night meetings, and making readers laugh with intrigue as they ponder the identity of the author's famous un-named Hollywood friends and foes.
