作者介绍:

David is almost certainly the most popular and successful art photographer the world has ever known. He produces dreamy, romantic images, pioneering the photographic style that bears his name and has been imitated by many — though never equalled.

In a career spanning over 40 years he has released about a book a year, selling in the millions of copies world-wide. Not to mention countless postcards, calendars, greeting cards, posters and signed, numbered, limited-edition exhibition-quality photo-prints. He has also made five feature movies.

His works hang in the United States Library of Congress, the White House (Clinton years), Carnegie Hall, the palace of the Danish royal family, the Guggenheim Museum and many other art galleries, museums and fine homes around the world.
